ANOTHER DRAFT.

It will be seen by the advertisement of Provo Marshal Womack, published in another column, that Uncle Sam's big wheel of fortune will again be set in motion to-day, and the unlucky ones will have another chance to draw a prize. The draft is to fill up the deficiency of Jefferson, Henry and Owen counties, caused by persons having been exempted who were selected at the former drawings.

The case of Turner T. Sharp, who was presented yesterday, was finished, and he was held in $300 to answer in Circuit Court.

GUERRILLAS AGAIN AT HARTFORD.—Captain Smith and about twenty men entered Hartford on Monday last, remained there an hour and departed toward Calhoun, taking with them one recruit and one horse for the recruit to ride. Smith was with Brown in his raid upon Hartford. He and a few others were captured a few days afterward, near Bowlinggreen, and placed in irons. They, by some unexplained process, relieved themselves from their shackles, escaped from prison and are again at their old trade. Smith had learned that some one in Hartford had induced his captors to iron him, and was exceedingly anxious to learn his name, avowing his intention to whom he is. Smith is said to be from Glasgow, and is represented as a man of pleasing appearance and manners. This was the party lately at Stephenaport.

ARMED THIEVES.—Whenever there is a large fire there will always be found those who appear very willing to assist in the removal of property from the burning houses, but who only save it from the fire in order to steal it. In addition to this, there are a set of thieves who lost around and steal whatever is rescued from the fire. On yesterday morning Ed. Sullivan, Sol. Ristic, and Joseph Jones, were detected in stealing looking glasses belonging to some fine bureaus, which had been removed from the house of John Simm. Another time, officers Slater and Antle detected John Daniel in the act of carrying off a box of bottles which had been removed from one of the burning buildings. The parties will all have a hearing before Judge Johnston this morning.

BARRACKS NEWS.—The only receipts at the barracks yesterday were 50 convalescents and recruits from different points, en route for the front. The transfers were 185 convalescents to different points, 5 convalescents to Fort Sibley, 32 to Springfield, Ill., to be mustered out of the service; 15 prisoners were sent off to Irongate; 6 to Nashville, 5 to Wash-ton, 1 to Lexington, 1 to Paducah, 1 to Indianapolis, and 1 to Chicago. A hospital steward belonging to the 13th regulars was sent to Covington from the barracks, and a guard, where he will be reduced to the ranks, for disorderly conduct.

ABERT OF CLOTHING RUNNERS.—There are a set of persons in this city who, under the guise of being runners for some clothing store, swindle the soldiers out of their hard earned money. There is an order against this class of persons, and all who violate this order will be arrested. The following men were arrested yesterday for a violation of this order, and sent to the guard house at the barracks, where they were confined: Isaac Slagle, Abraham Gabel, Isaac Wolfe, Abraham Williamson and Henry Cohen. Their cases will be investigated to-day.

ACCIDENT ON THE NASHVILLE R.R.—We learn that the passenger train from Nashville for this place ran off the track at Memphis Junction, on Thursday night. The accident was occasioned by the switch being misplaced. Fortunately no one was hurt, and the cars but slightly damaged. Owing to this accident the passenger train which was due here yesterday at about 4 o'clock, did not arrive until about 9 o'clock last night. There were no garrisons along the line, and all apprehensions of an attack on the road have ceased.

A Correspondent writing from this State to the New York World, states that "no boats are running between Cincinnati and Louisville now, owing to supposed brigands in the vicinity of the river country." This will no doubt be news to the officers of the mail boats, who have been running regularly.

FACING RACE AT WOODLAWN TO-DAY.—It will be seen by reference to an advertisement in our columns this morning, that a racing race will come off at Woodlawn this afternoon at 3 o'clock, between two well known horses named. Race sport may be expected. See advertisement for particulars.

THE GREAT FIRE YESTERDAY MORNING.

EIGHT LARGE BUSINESS HOUSES AND TEN OTHER HOUSES DESTROYED—Thousands of Barrels of Whisky and Flour Burned—Loss $1,500,000—Full and Interesting Particulars.

It is seldom that a city is visited with a more destructive fire than the one which occurred in this city yesterday, brief mention of which was made in the Evening News. About half past 2 o'clock in the morning the fire bells pealed for the alarm of fire, and in a short time the entire city was illuminated with the flames which ascended high in the air.

The fire originated in one of the fine blocks of four-story stone-front houses on Main street, between Eighth and Ninth, erected by Mr. Joseph Peterson at a cost of not less than $100,000. Mr. Clark and his nephew, who sleep over the tobacco store of the former, opposite to where the fire occurred, were awakened by the crackling sound of the flames. They immediately jumped from bed, when they discovered fires issuing from the two houses occupied by the Government. They opened their windows and cried "fire" at the top of their voices, but no one paid any attention to the alarm. Mr. Clark's nephew then started for the engine house, and on the way met a policeman. The alarm was given at once, but the fire had gained such headway that the engines, although promptly at work, were unable to subdue the flames, and the powerful streams thrown upon the burning mass seemed but to add fuel to the flames. There was a guard stationed around the building occupied by the Government, and how the fire could have got such a headway without being discovered is more than we are able to see. Four soldiers, who slept in the building, were awakened by the flames around them, and had time to escape with their lives. They had just been paid off, and had considerable money, all of which was devoured by the burning element.

The houses in which the fire originated were occupied by Dr. Magruder, Medical Parvayor, and were filled with all kinds of hospital stores. In the cellar was stored 60,000 fine blankets, besides bed-cads and other articles. In the second and third stories were a large amount of valuable chemicals and drugs, including 5,000 ounces of quinine. The upper stories were filled with mattresses and other bedding, and it was in these stories that the fire originated. The material was very combustible, the fire spread with fearful rapidity, and in a short time the two buildings were wrapped in one sheet of flame. Nearly every thing in these two houses was destroyed, as little or nothing could be saved after the alarm had been given. The loss to the Government will probably reach $800,000, besides considerable inconvenience in supplying the large number of wounded, which are being brought here, with the proper medical care.

A strong wind was blowing at the time, and the flames soon spread to a adjoining buildings on the right, occupied respectively by J. T. S. Brown and J. B. McEvily & Son, as liquor and flour stores. In a short time after these buildings caught fire, they were enveloped in the driving flames. At one time the firemen, by their exertions, had got the mastery of the great destroyer, but at this time the liquor in the stores of Brown and McEvily caught fire, and the scene became fearfully grand. The flames curled high in the air. Higher, higher, they seemed, curling around each other, presenting a scene seldom-witnessed. Still higher curled the hissing flames, and they seemed to defy the exertions of the firemen to stop them in their march of destruction. The streams of water thrown upon the burning flames, but to no effect. A number of barrels of whisky burst and rolled down the street at a fearful rate, sweeping everything before them. The scene, as the fire swept down the descent of the street, was truly grand, but, at the same time terrible. So fast did the gushing flames move, that it was with difficulty the firemen escaped without being burned, and we learn that a portion of the hose was destroyed. As the flames of burning had swept past the corner of Eighth and Water streets, it ignited a number of buildings there, and we then had a fire both on the River and Main street. The firemen struggled nobly to subdue the flames, but they proved the master, and in a short time the houses occupied by Brown and McEvily were one mass of burning cinders, nothing left but the front wall. In the house occupied by Brown were one thousand barrels of flour, belonging to W. J. Anderson & Co., 200 barrels of flour for Mr. Meigs, 500 barrels of flour for Smith & Brother, all of which were destroyed, and on which there was but $1,000 insurance. There were also stored in the house 7,000 bushels of wheat belonging to Brandy & Crawford, 70 barrels of whisky belonging to the Louisville Hotel, 20 barrels of whisky belonging to Bark, and a quantity belonging to the National Hotel, which was destroyed, and which was insured for $10,000. The loss to Mr. Brown will amount to $45,000, upon which there was an insurance of only $18,000 insurance.

POOR THIEVES.—Whenever there is a large fire there will always be found those who appear very willing to assist in the removal of property from the burning houses, but who only save it from the fire in order to steal it.

In the alley to the rear of the buildings which were burned, was a two-story brick dwelling house belonging to John Simm, which was also destroyed. It was valued at $3,000.

The destruction of property at the river was considerable. The principal loss there was suffered by J. H. Hart, pump and block maker, who lost his building, two blacksmith shops and a large quantity of manufactured material. His loss will probably amount to $25,000, with no insurance.

Three small houses on Eighth street near the river, belonging to Dr. Talbot and occupied by laborers, were destroyed. They were small houses, and the loss to the Doctor will not be much. A small frame house and a two-story brick house on Water street, between Eighth and Ninth, were also burned.

The latter belonged to Mr. McEvily.

From half-past two to eight o'clock in the morning, the fire raged with great fury, and the silk drapes, small curtains and tapestries, which the ladies had put up to subdue the flames, were unable to withstand the heat.
